Two lines, not one

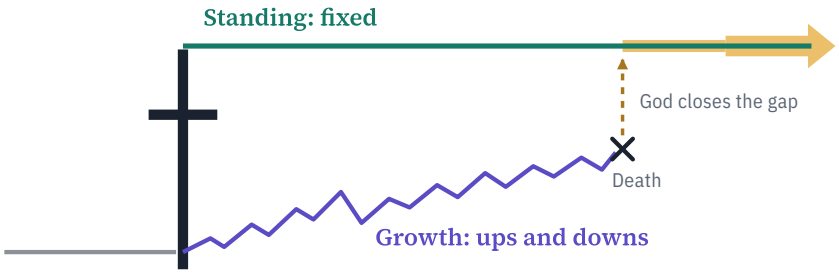

One line

Every fall looks like death

If salvation could be lost

Your standing is merged into your growth, and the cross only gets you started. Every fall drops you back to the flatline, and you need the cross again.

What the gospel says

Your growth rises and falls. Your standing was settled at the cross. A fall is a dip on the growth line, never a drop off the standing line.

When you fall

A fall doesn't send you back to the flatline. It sends you back to Jesus. Keep turning to him: confess, and be restored.

1 John 1:9; 1 John 2:1

God finishes what he starts

"He who began a good work in you will carry it on to completion until the day of Christ Jesus."

Phil 1:6; John 10:28–29

What about people who walk away?

Scripture says those who finally walk away show they never truly belonged: "if they had belonged to us, they would have remained with us." True faith keeps holding on, because God keeps holding on to it.

1 John 2:19; Heb 3:14

Many sincere Christians believe salvation can be lost, usually by walking away from faith rather than by a single sin. This page asks one question of that view: can what God did once for all be undone?
